Braddy's Guys

Omaha beach, June 6, 1944, sector Easy Green. Late in the afternoon..

Of all the soldiers in the entire 12th Inf Regt. Sgt Braddy's men, "Braddy's Guys", may not be among the best but they're certainly outclassing everyone when it comes to being obstinate. It must be said that the Sergeant had his hand in the making of this attitude.

Off the record : they nicknamed him "Bulldog" because once he gets started on something he does not let it go until it's finished... and his sense of humour must be of the same level as that of the canine creature... but he is not Man's best friend however...
So, when Lt Jones assigned to us the mission to guard this darn piece of beach, we knew we would be trampling on seaweed for a long time.
At once, Braddy's booming voice echoed over our heads, ordering us to : "MOVE! MOVE! MOVE!", adding, "Some iodine will be good for you!"
"Ow yeah! I looove the sound of seagulls!" ...
Instantly Braddy stared down Bill, our scout, who had dared to utter his exclamation which had a bit of jest but mostly sarcasm in it.
Now, if looks could kill... our scout would no longer be with us...
With that mood set, you can bet the Sgt will make sure we hold "his" beach.

Particular information :

The game lasts for eight turns. Check score after turn eight.
Roll a die to determine starting turn initiative.

Fog special rules :

During the fog enemies must be :
-within two squares of an ambushed unit in the open
to discover it
-adjacent to an ambushed unit in covering terrain
to discover it
Maximum range is seven squares
Shots fired distances over 3 squares receive long range penalty.
Dispersion distance is augmented by two squares.
The fog lifts after turn 2. Apply normal rules starting turn 3.

Victory conditions :

Either side : score the most points with the objectives.
Points are scored for objectives only, not for eliminated units.
Main objective : 3 VP
Secondary objective : 2 VP

Option a :

-both sides start with zero points
-both sides' units must be adjacent to an objective to capture it
-an objective can only be conquered and scored when
NO enemy unit is also adjacent at the end of turn eight
-as long as an objective has units from both sides contesting it,
NO points are scored for it

Option b :

-at the start of the game the US side has control over all objectives and thus has all the points
-as soon as a German unit captures an objective they steal its points from the US side
-a German unit must be adjacent to an objective to capture it
-German units only conquer an objective when NO enemy unit is also adjacent
-German units must have at least one unit adjacent to an objective to keep its points
-US side keeps or regains points for any objective that has NO enemy units next to it
-US side doesn't need to be or remain adjacent to an objective to have its points
