COMMANDO.

FANMADE SCENARIO

"It would have been a quiet nocturnal reconnaissance mission. A routine operation, almost like a stroll in the park. We had thoroughly studied the layout of the camp. The Colonel named it "Operation Mosquito", because we would move towards the German lights at nighttime, not being any more noisy than mosquitoes. Of course things did not go as planned.
Mac Hinshwett, a Scottish "mosquito" of about 16 stone and 3 lbs, got caught in the glare of an AA spotlight. His instant reflex was to turn it off... with a grenade...
Within seconds several MG's opened up on us. Luckily, right after the bang, we had scattered for cover in different directions. We had to think fast. To give the others some sort of chance to slip past the MG's, join up with us and leave this place, we needed to create a diversion and kill all the lights.
Sasha, our demolitions expert, set out to blow up the generator..."

Set up :

Use yellow objective markers to lay out the area illuminated by spotlights.
Germans deploy in the blue zone.
Place two MG 42, one in either trench.
Place the officer, a fire group and an MG 42 in the house.
The Puma starts on the road on the West side.
The remaining units will deploy anywhere in the blue zone at the North edge in turn 3.
Lay out a minefield. Use DPG news n°1, download game help "Mines" from the DPG site or if you have no mines, use instructions on German deck card MINE .
British deploy Smokey, Sasha, the Bazooka and the Vickers in the Eastern red zone.
Lovat and the four recruitment tile units deploy in the two red zones to the West.

Requirements :

Core Box
D-Day
Commonwealth Army Box
German Army Box
Punchboards :
DPG news n° 1
Lord Lovat's Commandos

Map tiles :

C-4A C-1A C-5A
C-2A C-3A C-6A

Battlefield and Deployment :

The Cards :

Remove from,

-both decks :

Artillery and Aviation
PRECISION
RAM
REPAIRS
SURPRISE
WEAK POINT

-German deck :

BOOBY TRAPPED

-American deck :

DON'T STOP
HIT AND RUN
IT BOUNCED RIGHT OFF IT.

Both players draw 4 cards.

Flakscheinwerfer 1940
Credit : Bundesarchiv, Bild 146-1977-091-13A / Klose / CC-BY-SA 3.0

Composition of the armies :

Victory Conditions and Particular Information :

-The game lasts for 6 turns.

-The British player has the initiative.

-The zone marked off by yellow secondary objective tiles is illuminated by spotlights.
Night time rules apply outside this zone and on the entire map, once the generator is destroyed :
Maximum visibility is 7 squares.
Long range penalty over 3 squares.
Units in ambush out in the open are visible from a distance of 2 squares.
Units in ambush in covering terrain are only visible from an adjacent square.
Dispersal roll distance augmented by two squares.

-To turn off the spotlights, the generator building must be destroyed.
Sasha, the demolitions expert, must be moved adjacent to the building, during this same turn in the Supply phase he places his charge.
The generator is destroyed in the Supply phase of the next turn.

-Lovat and four units are in a bit of a pickle on the West side. To win, the British player must evacuate at least two of these five units through the East side of the board before the end of the game.