Monuments men

Historical Background: To help US troops recover German looted art during the Second World War, the Allied Military Command created the "Monuments Men" in June 1943. They provided information on cultural heritage and intervention areas. They also protect art works in liberated areas, and are also responsible for searching for missing art works and for creating inventories to return to their owners. This group was made up of about 350 men from 13 different nations. Most of the people in this group were museum directors or curators, art historians, architects, artists, military or academics.

France, September 1944: American advanced elements have heard of the impending evacuation of three paintings of great value to a church in a nearby village. Their transport by train to Germany is only a matter of hours.

Composition of the Armies:

Preparation:

Remove from the American and German decks all Artillery and Aviation cards.

The Germans deploy in the red zone. They can not deploy in the church.

Americans have the initiative.

Only the Recon squadron recruitment tile deploys in the blue area (cannot use scout capability). Units of the rifle platoon start off map but can enter the map (blue area) on turn 1 with an order token or in the supply phase.

Battle Maps: Tiles SM3 B, SM1 A, CA1 A, CA2 A, CA3 A, RR1 A

Victory Conditions:

The Germans must take the train off the map by the end of turn 8 with the 3 paintings loaded on board.
The Americans must stop them and get the paintings!
Any other case is considered a draw.

Special Rules:

The train starts at a stop. It can only start when all 3 paintings are on board.
To pick up and transport a painting, it is enough for a unit to pass over it. A unit can carry all 3 paintings. A unit carrying a painting suffers a -1 move penalty per transported painting. If a painting is hit by a successful grenade throw, it is destroyed!

The Truck cannot enter the loading platform of the station.
