Wittmann's Charge.

FANMADE SCENARIO

13 June 1944, near Villers-Bocage :

"Careful, Heinrich," Michael Wittmann called to his driver as the massive Tiger maneuvered its way around another tight bend in the Normandy hedgerows. "Somewhere around here, there's a bunch of Tommy tankers."

Before anyone could answer him, there was a loud bang and squeal of metal as a shell bounced off the front of the German tank. "Herr Hauptsturmführer, I think we've found them," cursed young Gunther Weber, the tank's loader, as he slammed a shell into the breach.

"More like they've found us," corrected Wittmann calmly. "Rudi, signal the others to advance at once. We shall take them out and render them useless!"

Set up :

The Allies set up all their vehicles on either the North or South road, excluding the two Eastern-most boards.
The infantry must start transported, and the guns each are towed by a Universal Carrier.
All the vehicles must be heading East toward the intersection, and must be entirely on the road.
After Commonwealth troops have set up, the Germans split their forces into two groups . One group must set up on the Western board edge, the other on the Eastern board edge.

Victory Conditions :

Only the German player keeps a score :

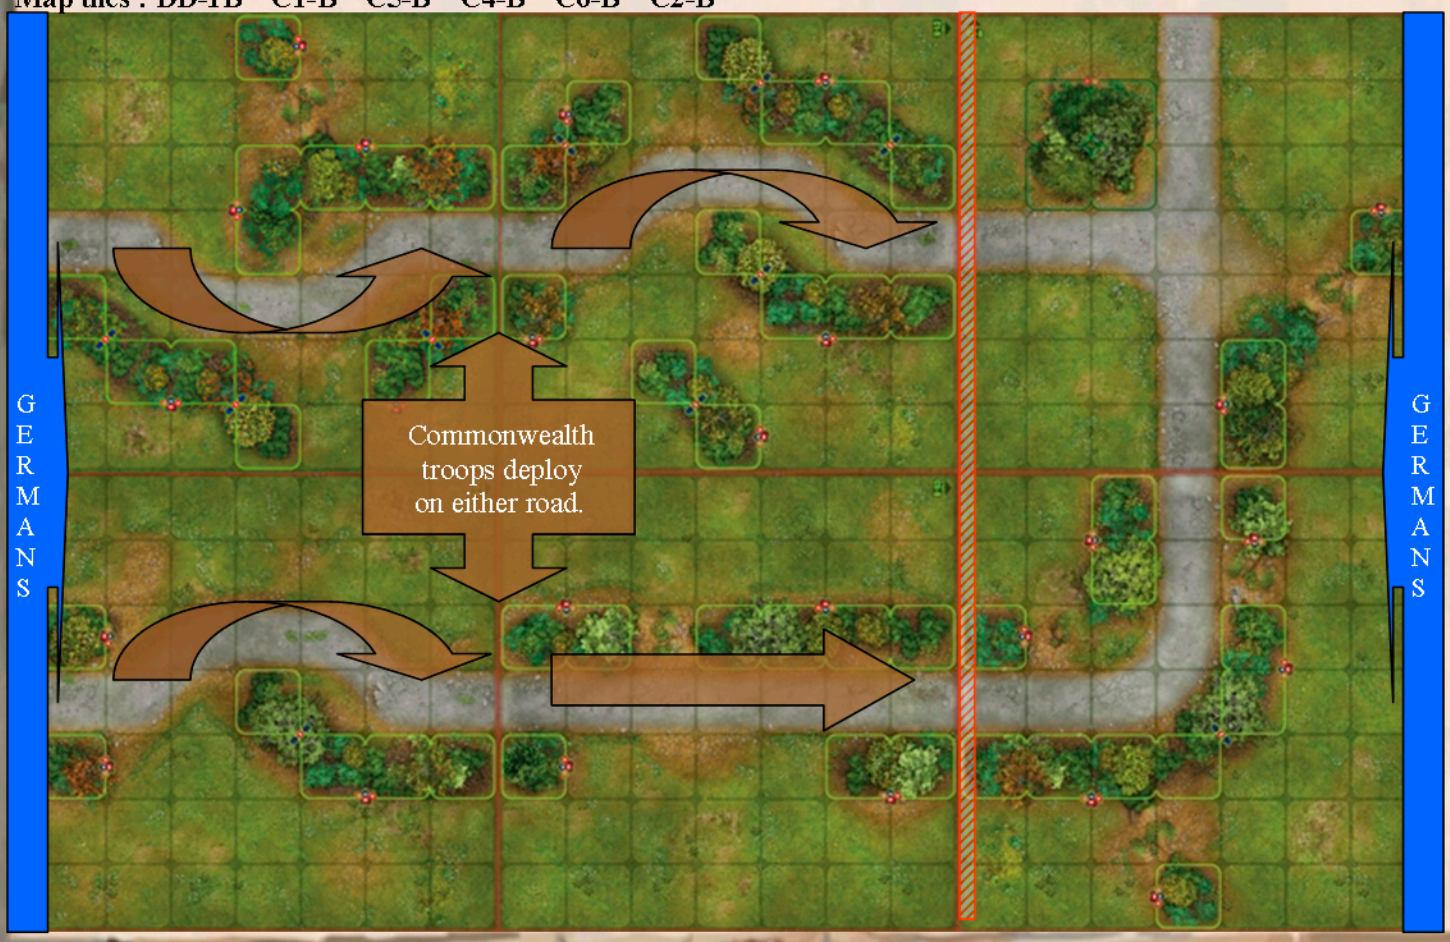

-Sherman Firefly destroyed	+2 pts.
-Every other British tank destroyed	+1 pt.
-AT Gun or Howitzer each	+1 pt.
-For every TWO Universal Carriers destroyed	+1 pt.
-Each German tank destroyed	-1 pt.
-Wittmann destroyed	-2 pts.

After turn 8 check score :

3 pts. or less. -> smashing British victory
4 pts. or 5 pts. -> draw
6 pts. or 7 pts. -> German victory
8 pts. -> German resounding victory

Particular Information :
The game last for 8 Turns.
Germans have starting initiative.

SURPRISE AND CONFUSION :
On the first turn of the game, the British receive one less order and must place a suppressed token on every one of their vehicles.

NO RETREAT, NO SURRENDER :
Because the British troops have been ordered to hold the roads leading to Villers-Bocage, no British units may move off the board edges or otherwise retreat from the scenario without being immediately counted as destroyed.
