TWENTY-NINE, LET'S GO!

Five days after D-Day, on June 11th, 1944, the men of the 29th Cavalry Reconnaissance Troop were ordered to maintain the liaison between the 101st U.S. Airborne and the 175th Infantry Regiment (29th Infantry Division) near Sainte-Marguerite-d'Elle. They were then sent to scout the roads leading to Moon-sur-Elle. Strong opposition awaited them and the fighting was fierce. It was critical to current operations to establish an observation post in the village, so it had to be taken, regardless of the cost!

On June 15th, the scouts of the 29th Cavalry Recon Troop captured the village of La Meauffe, supported by their Division's artillery who were guided by the artillery spotters in an observation post at Moon-Sur-Elle. They held that village until June 17th, when they were driven out of their position by a German counter-offensive.

On June 18th, the 119th Regiment of the 30th Infantry Division relieved the 29th Cavalry Reconnaissance Troop which was then used as a liaison unit until the 20th of June before being transferred to reserve.
