SCENARIO 2 - BRIEFING

THE HILLS HAVE EGGS ...

Jacquotte has trouble waking up since her Jacquot was no longer here, killed by the invaders. But her friends rely on her so, at dawn, proudly, she rises, takes a deep breath, stands and calls out a “cot!” which dies out in the morning mist and the thunder of gunfire.
But, this morning again, all is not well, her eggs are in jeopardy!
This morning again, Hans wants her eggs “à la coqueu”, as he likes to say in distinguished French.
This morning again, John wants her eggs “scrambled!”, as he likes to scream, in a more Texan than American English.
Chuck of luck : there is a little hill, on which the farm has been destroyed, but, a small hensouse subsides in the center of the yard, in which Jacquotte stays. But lady luck is fickle : The Rock’s US scouts and Helmut’s Panzergrenadier’s have standing orders to inspect the hill, this morning. “Cot!”

1- BATTLEFIELD AND DEPLOYMENT

2- COMPOSITION OF ARMIES

3- SETUP

Remove all the Artillery and Airstrike cards from both decks.

Units are deployed in their own deployment zone, except Hans Gruber (german) and John Marvin (US). Players cannot benefit from their Order token (unless they enters the battle).

The American player has the initiative.
Thus he deploys first
Place the corresponding marker on space 1 of the turn counter.

Each player draws 4 cards.

4- PLAYING THE GAME

The game lasts 6 turns.

Players must score the most victory points at the end of the game.

Turn 2 : The US jeep and GE motorcycle must be deployed on the nearest road space on the edge of their deployment zone during the turn 2 Supply phase.

The objectives are attributed to the last infantry unit that went on the space: there is the control of an intersection, the searching of the ruins to find important papers and the retrieval of a drop in a field. The objectives are not picked up.

To control an objective, it is enough to have an infantry unit on at the end of the Supply phase. The marker is then flipped to indicate possession according to his army: US or GE.

The henhouse is represented by a 1-space building in the center, the troops cannot enter into it, it cannot be destroyed or targeted.
Eggs are recoverable by the motorcycle (German) or the jeep (US) only, by stopping on one of the henhouse entries zones (blue boxes) at the end of the Supply phase. The vehicle then takes a Suppressed marker: it carries the eggs!

This marker won't be removed during the Supply phase.

The morotcycle and jeep can get off the map by the road space of their deployment zone. If they do and are carrying eggs, that Army's High Commander (Hans Gruber or John Marvin) joins the battle during the Supply phase of the next round; he had his omelette.
His troops have his extra Order token. The Commander is deployed in a space on the edge of his deployment zone. If he is is alive and on the map at the end of the game, he is worth a bonus.
The jeep and the motorcycle can shoot and be shoted normally.
If the jeep or motorcycle are destroyed before they bring the eggs, it is impossible for that army to bring their Commander onto the field. He sulks with an incomplete breakfast.

5- END OF GAME AND VICTORY

At the end of the 6th turn, each player earns 20 points per objective in his color. He also wins the Victory points for broken enemy units. Finally he can add the Victory point value if his Commander (Hans Gruber or John Marvin) is active on the map.

A scenario inspired by 2 photos and a bad word game.
